should I get a couch?

measure the value of receiving phone calls, then exceed it.

replace the socialization of work with other socialization too few phone workers causes voicemail and delay music. It could drive people to online opportunities instead.

SSI funds are extracted from others. Only about half of those others like the idea.

Ive got inventors crevice.
so Im supposed to think of a water treatment technology and a new medical technology.

GSK

fuzzy sutures like dental floss herringbone no-slip sutures indented groove or polyvoid sutures healing gunk occupies voids -<>-<>-<>-<>- if sutures can be arbitrarily strong, should they have hollow islands to facilitate healing?
Think of a suture ----------
Now think of the suture with hollow voids at regular intervals
--<>--<>--<>--<>--
You could load the holes with stem cells of the vascular(or other) type to make healing more rapid or complete.
You could also load the voids with peptide gel.
The idea is that the tissue you stitch back together heals faster from the stem cells or peptides.
If the ascii graphics are unclear think of a beaded curtain string, with breathsavers instead of beads. (breathsavers look like lifesavers with the hole filled with breath freshener) chinese finger trap sutures that automatically pull together after sewing. Could be like PMMA coating that puffs and pulls with durable wet contact.

have computer models been made of sewing tissue together yet? there might be a previously unknown optimal stitch.

Quora says menstrual blood fuses malodor at the vagina. Drawing the fluid further away from the vaginal surface could possibly reduce this. a two layer pantiliner or pad ====== with a more absorbed far layer could be measured as reducing contact moisture more than 50% It is possible this two layer interior could work with a tampon as well. An anti-odor surface probiotic might also be possible probiotic pads and tampons pads and tampons with calming anti-PMS peptide is there a bacteria that smells good? a kind of deodorizing probiotic

GSK: pantiliner diagnostic test GSK makes aspirin caffeine paracetemol tablets. And so what?????!!!!! coat them with active placebo flavor medicine that tastes bad might be thought to be stronger, but is there another taste, that tastes good, that makes people think medicine is strong? Perhaps spearmint, or a modified spearamint. Horehound? Sen-sen (ammoniated licorice) if its 1% better and 1 billion pills are used then that's something.

blue line on the pill divider indention? or how about pan am building spread lines on the pill; very aerodynamic! looks effective.

call it "active impression" rather than "placebo"

I read placebos work even when you know they are placebos!

Excedrin:work 80 mg caffeine Excedrin:home naproxen with time release caffeine after a burst to do the immediate headache relief. 12 hour all day caffeinated relief. slightly peps you up all day.

possibly that non caffeine multimethyxanthine (diet pill non trimethylxanthine caffeine like chemical) or synephrine or the active metabolite of caffeine paraxanthine (dimethylxanthine; potency bar equal that of caffeine) at weight loss supplements; test it to see if it is more effective than aspirin with caffeine. Excedrin XP (paraxanthine)

Green tea caffeine at excedrin if liposomes work in the stomach then liposomal aspirin with liposomal caffeine to cause more rapid absorption.

liquid capsule excedrin with a difference. gelatin is made of protein; different molecular weights of the protein jello might have different dissolubility, making absorption more rapid.
